

CONTENTS

Volume 2 Number 1

2005

- |  |    |   |
|--|----|---|
| B. S. Dongol, J. Merz,M. P. Dhakal and P. M. Dangol      | 1  | Comparative study of low flows in the middle mountain catchments of Nepal   |
| M. Rajbahak and R. P. Shrestha                               | 8  | A diagnostic study of onset and withdrawal of summer monsoon in Nepal, 2003   |
| J. L. Nayava   | 16 | The estimation of evapotranspiration by climate models for Western Nepal  |
| S. K. Regmi  | 24 | Heavy monsoon rainfall: a case study of July, 2003 with reference to synoptic perspective in Nepal                      |
| L. P. Devkota  | 34 | Rainfall analysis of the Kathmandu Valley   |
| S. Karmakar and Md. M. Alam                                  | 41 | On the probabilistic extremes of thunderstorm frequency over Bangladesh during the pre-monsoon season                   |
| B. Pokharel, S. MarahattaL. Adhikari, and A. B. Shrestha | 48 | Precipitation study of Makalu Area  |
| S. Marahatta and B. P. Upadhyay                              | 55 | Monthly low flow analysis of Melamchi Basin and issues of urban water supply in Kathmandu Valley for the month of March |
| G.M. Tarekul Islam and S. Akhter                             | 61 | Development of sediment rating curve for the Lower Ganges River in Bangladesh: A new approach                           |
| B. Shakya and S. Shrestha                                    | 69 | Soil-water and grass evapotranspiration experiments in Tribhuvan University micro-catchment soil                        |
| K. Sherchand, G. Mallaand A. Sharma                      | 77 | Analysis of climatic trends of different agro-ecological zones of Eastern Development Region of Nepal                   |

Journal of Hydrology and Meteorology is a publication of the Society of Hydrologists and Meteorologists-Nepal (SOHAM-Nepal)

The journal is registered at the District Administration Office, Kathmandu (Reg. No. 88/060/06)

This issue of Journal was sponsored by Alternative Energy Promotion Center (AEPC)

Volume 2, Number 1
June 2005

Journal of Hydrology and Meteorology

Society of Hydrologists and Meteorologists - Nepal

SOHAM-Nepal